PULLING IT OFF Abbott leather pulls, from $175, at Waterworks

| TONY TEXTURE |

Waterworks' Abbott leather pulls are less hardware, more fashion, somehow managing to add both warmth and sophistication with their boldly stitched, thick Italian leather that wraps rich metal nickel, unlacquered brass and vintage patina finishes. The vegetable-tanned leather is available in chocolate or chestnut, and the pulls come in a trio of sizes: 4, 6 and 12 inches.

| OUT WITH THE OLD |

Originally owned by the Archdiocese of Atlanta, this Habersham home that once featured a small chapel and holy water space has made a full 180 after ESD Homes took over, with Managing Director Liz Davies at the helm. She says, "For ESD Homes, it is paramount to ensure that architecture, design and construction are all cohesive in execution," which is why designer Karla Morris of KGM Designs worked closely with Davies to ensure the perfection of the space from the sleek Bottega supplied, Stone Solutions fabricated tiled floors to the custom, open-concept Pella windows that allow for sunshine-filled breakfasts at the island. The state-of-the-art stainless steel kitchen appliances including the refrigerator from Sub-Zero and the dishwashers from Miele add an air of cool industrialism to the space. Complementing the brilliantly white room is a lengthy bar with overhead Woodtec Millwork custom cabinets donning glassware that's essential for any cocktail hour, and a miniature wine fridge. 196A 14th St., 404.567.5431, esdhomes.com

SOFT HUES
The pale tiled backsplash offers a modern and updated approach to an otherwise all white space.

50 SHADES Traci Rhoads' completely redesigned kitchen places a heavy emphasis on a gray hues.

| ONTO THE NEXT |

After eight years in her Midtown loft, principal interior designer Traci Rhoads of Traci Rhoads Interiors decided it was finally time to transform her typical builder-grade kitchen into her dream culinary space. The piece that kicked off the start of the renovation was the antiqued mirrored backsplash. She says, "I fell in love with this at Renaissance Tile & Bath and had to have it." A fan of deep contrasts, Rhoads chose Bell Kitchen & Bath Studios cabinets with a lighter stain to bring out both the cabinets' own color and that of her chocolate-brown wood floors. For a sharpened and polished look, Rhoads installed brand new Jenn-Air appliances and Lucite and polished nickel pulls on the cabinetry. Not to mention the floating island topped with Carrara marble countertops that feature waterfall marble by Steven Stone, a glass and polished nickel chandelier and a ROHL stainless steel industrial-chic sink. 112 Krog St., Ste. 9, 404.971.4423, trinteriors.net

| SLOW BURN |

During Milan Design Week, Italian design company Boffi debuted Pitt Hobs, a cooking system developed with Dutch company Pitt Holland. The professional-grade gas burners are fully integrated into your countertop for a seamless application. Up to six burners can be configured in 29 formations for complete customization while the enamel cast-iron matte-black elements and knobs turn your cooking area into a study in minimalism. boffi.com
